

I don't feel that Indiana's Telephone Privacy law should be changed in anyway. I like not having all the UNWANTED phone calls. The way I see it, if I am in need of something, I will call and get it. The phone should be no different than the laws about mailboxes. People can't just put things in your mailbox to get you to try and buy something without it having to go thru the post office. So why should people be able to just pick up a phone and call you trying to sell you something ALL DAY and ALL NIGHT long, without you wanting them to. I pay my phone bill for my use, not to have people bothering me everyday of the week and every hour of the day and night.
